Three Arrested After Six-Week Narcotics Investigation; LSD, Marijuana and Weapons Recovered

Manchester Township NJ – A six-week investigation by members of the Manchester Township Police Department's Narcotics Enforcement Team (N.E.T.) culminated in the search of a Summit Park home and the arrests of three individuals on drug and weapons charges on Wednesday.

During the early morning hours of July 13, 2016, members of the department's Narcotics Enforcement Team and Detective Section, along with members of the Ocean County Regional SWAT Team, executed a Court authorized search warrant at a Neal Place residence in the Summit Park section of the Township. The six-week investigation began after the Narcotics Enforcement Team received complaints about possible drug distribution on that block. Police obtained a search warrant for the residence after a subsequent investigation. During the search of the home, evidence of LSD and marijuana distribution, along with a quarter pound of marijuana and 165 doses of LSD were recovered. In addition, multiple prohibited weapons and more than $1,000.00 in cash, believed to be proceeds of drug sales, were seized. Furthermore, paraphernalia associated with the distribution of marijuana and LSD was also seized.

Arrested were the following:

- Shawn Moll, 27, of Neal Place, Manchester
- Kwasi Mayweather, 30, of River Avenue, Lakewood
- Victoria Espinal, 19, of Housen Street, Manchester

All three individuals were charged with possession of and possession with intent to distribute LSD, possession of and possession with intent to distribute over 50 grams of marijuana, possession of K2 (synthetic marijuana), possession of drug paraphernalia, and possession of prohibited weapons. Additionally, Mayweather was processed on two outstanding arrest warrants; one out of the Ocean County Sheriff's Department and one out of Millstone Municipal Court.

Moll's bail was set at $165,000, with no 10 percent option, while bail for both Mayweather and Espinal was set at $100,000, also with no 10 percent option. All three subjects were unable to post bail and were subsequently transported to the Ocean County Jail.

The investigation was led by the Manchester Police Department's N.E.T. Assisting with this investigation were the officers from both the Manchester Police Department Investigations and Patrol Bureaus. Additionally, the Ocean County Sheriff's Office K-9 unit assisted at the scene.

Residents are reminded that drug related tips can be reported to the Manchester Police anonymously at 732-657-6111 or online via the Department's website, www.manchesterpolice.nj.com, by clicking the "Tip Line" link.

SCHOOL BOARD CANDIDATES FILING DEADLINE IS JULY 25

CANDIDATES seeking school board seats have until 4 p.m., Monday, July 25 to file their nominating petitions at the Ocean County Clerk's Office in order to have their name placed on the Nov. 8 General Election Ballot, according to Ocean County Clerk Scott M. Colabella. Nominating petitions for School Board can be obtained in person at either the Ocean County Clerk's Main Office, at the Ocean County Courthouse, Election Services, Room 107 at 118 Washington St., Toms River, or at the Ocean County Southern Service Center, 179 South Main St., Manahawkin. The offices are staffed from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

"The Ocean County Clerk's Office makes every effort to inform potential candidates of approaching filing deadlines," said Ocean County Freeholder Director John P. Kelly, who serves as liaison to the County Clerk. "Through the office's website, social media, and other avenues, County Clerk Colabella provides the information needed by both candidates and voters."

Colabella noted that all Ocean County school districts now hold their Board of Education elections in November. "A law signed by the Governor in 2014 moved the petition filing deadline for school board candidates from June to the last Monday in July to provide candidates with more time to submit their petitions," Colabella said.

A total of 70 school board seats will appear on the November ballot in various school districts throughout Ocean County. A complete listing of all candidates who file petitions for school board will be available shortly after the July 25 deadline at www.oceancountyclerk.com or www.facebook.com/oceancountyclerk.

School board candidates seeking additional information on the petition filing process can contact the Ocean County Clerk's Election Office at (732) 929-2153.

"It's important for candidates to get their paperwork in on time," Colabella said. "That is what guarantees their place on the ballot."

ARIES: 21st March & 20th April

You need to be careful about the expectations somebody else may try to place on you as it can dramatically increase your obligations or responsibilities in some way. Any inkling that this will inhibit your independence more than you would like should not be ignored. There has to be room in life to have some fun and pleasure.

TAURUS: 21st April & 20th May

What somebody else really has as long term goals can become quite obvious. You are more likely to have a sense of resistance towards them or reservations. The main benefit from this is that it will encourage you to think about and perhaps discuss more, situations you would like to bed down or establish in your life.

GEMINI: 21st May & 20th June

Much can take place on two levels this week. Discussion or exchange of ideas with someone else can work easily. You need to be careful this does not lead you to make false assumptions when it comes to the level of commitment they are willing to make. Their true agenda won't be revealed without more digging into the details.

CANCER: 21st June & 22nd July

Somebody else can make their position or personal desires much more obvious, which you can be pleased about. What you may not notice is pressure it could put on commitments you already have. You can make a lot of progress if you need to get some sort of detailed order in place when it comes to your own finances.

LEO: 23rd July & 22nd August

There will be much to occupy you that can be most enjoyable. Commitments exist and they have to be taken into account at the same time. If this is dealt with initially it will prevent forgetting important details and matters getting out of hand. Any routines recently put into place need to be adhered to for success on a daily basis.

VIRGO: 23rd August & 22nd September

The need or opportunity to socialize can come up on the spur of the moment – it can be rather exciting and enjoyable. It can also tire you out easily as you need to get your rest at the moment as well as time to yourself to think things over. Having your normal routine interrupted too much can interfere with clarity of thought.

LIBRA: 23rd September & 22nd October

Money you either choose to spend or are expected to spend could bring matters to a head at home or within the family. Others can expect to maintain their freedom while you get the responsibilities. It can be a good thing because it will encourage you to think about, as well as discuss your own priorities and needs from life.

SCORPIO: 23rd October & 21st November

You should have a sense of moving forward though much of this will require discussion. Take care you do not say too much, particularly if you plan to alter daily routines dramatically. You cannot avoid responsibilities when it comes to finances and if you accept this it does not have to be difficult to make sure it happens.

SAGITTARIUS: 22nd November & 21st December

Feeling secure about future prospects is something you should feel confident about, particularly when past efforts are involved in any way. There can still be a waiting game or some sort of hold up, though it is not something you need to worry about. Money or earnings can be part of this with luck coming about in a surprising way.

CAPRICORN: 22nd December & 19th January

The Full Moon this week occurs in your sign and this can bring much fulfillment on a personal level. If you are sure about your priorities, there will be plenty of opportunity to set about putting them in place. You need to realize the changes this will either bring or demand when it comes to the way life has so far been structured.

AQUARIUS: 20th January & 18th February

It might be necessary for you to remind someone else about where you stand or what has greatest importance to you. These discussions should not be difficult – they are quite open to listening. Take notice of any feelings you have about things going on behind the scenes – you do not have to accept obligations coming from them.

PISCES: 19th February & 20th March

Involvement with a group of people or friends can help to make your future prospects more clear-cut. Things you need to think about and deal with on a daily basis can be more readily accepted simply because you have got to a point where you realize they are not going to disappear. There are some benefits to be gained.

Mayor and Council Support School Funding Fairness Formula

Both Mayor Kenneth Palmer and members of the Township Council have put their support behind Gov. Chris Christie's proposed school funding fairness formula, a plan that promises significant property tax relief for Manchester Township.

Manchester officials have contended for years that the current funding formula is inequitable, leaving our property owners to pay comparatively more than other municipalities to support the school district. The proposed changes to the funding formula would set a flat amount of aid for each student, regardless of district, saving property owners in Manchester an estimated average of $600 based on the average home value of $157,700.

"This would make a huge difference to Manchester in property tax relief. Passage of this single measure would provide the largest decrease in property taxes for every Manchester resident," said Mayor Palmer, who recently signed a pledge from the Governor's Office to support the Fairness Formula. He encourages all residents to reach out to lawmakers to advocate for its adoption.

In a further show of support, the Township Council at its July 11 meeting passed a resolution in favor of the proposed funding formula. "The new funding formula would provide substantial tax relief to Manchester's residents, including our senior citizens who survive on fixed incomes. A lower tax rate would also attract new homeowners, businesses and developers to our town, improving the economic environment for everyone," said Council President James A. Vaccaro Sr.

Currently, of the $9.1 billion in aid to school districts throughout New Jersey, about $5.1 billion goes to 31 districts, while the $4 billion goes to the remaining 546 districts. Gov. Christie's proposal would reallocate funding so that each student, everywhere, will receive $6,499. This would result in a 247 percent increase in school aid to Manchester Township.

Hit and Run Crash - Motorcycle Collides with Vehicle, Rider Transported to Trauma Center

Manchester Twp NJ – Police are requesting the public’s assistance in locating a vehicle that fled the scene of a serious hit and run crash that occurred on Monday, July 11, 2016.

At approximately 9:57 pm, on Monday, July 11th, officers from the Manchester Township Police responded to Commonwealth Boulevard at the intersection of Pemberton Street in the Pine Lake Park section of town to investigate a hit and run crash involving a motorcycle and an unknown vehicle. Upon arrival, officers observed a black, 2005 Honda Shadow motorcycle on its side in the west bound lane of Commonwealth Boulevard. The rider of the motorcycle, later identified as 20 year old, Noel M. Llera 3rd, of Manchester, was lying on the road in the intersection. The rider was reported to have initially lost consciousness but was awake and complaining of difficulty breathing and chest pain when officers arrived. The rider was transported to Community Medical Center in Toms River, evaluated and then transferred to Jersey Shore University Medical Center in Neptune. His current condition is not known. The other vehicle involved in the crash left the scene prior to police arrival according to witnesses.

The initial investigation revealed that the Llera was traveling west on Commonwealth Boulevard approaching the intersection of Pemberton Street when he broke aggressively to avoid a collision. This caused his motorcycle to fall over and strike the roadway. After striking the roadway, the motorcycle then slid on its side and impacted the unknown vehicle in the intersection, possibly striking it on the driver’s side rear lower portion or on the undercarriage. The rider of the motorcycle was wearing a DOT approved helmet, gloves, and a padded riding jacket at the time of the crash.

Assisting at the scene were members of the Manchester Township Volunteer First Aid Squad, The Ridgeway Fire Department, and the Ocean County Sheriff’s Department Crime Scene Investigation (CSI) Unit. The investigation into the crash is still ongoing and anyone with information is asked to contact Patrolman Antonio Ellis of the Manchester Township Police Department’s Traffic Safety Unit, at 732-657-2009 ext. 4401.

According to the Governor's Office, the Fairness Formula is "an equal per-pupil funding plan that would provide tax fairness for all residents and better public education for every New Jersey student." The plan would not impact special education funding.

Currently, 14 percent of Manchester's school district funding comes from state aid, while some urban districts receive close to full funding. School taxes make up 54 percent of a homeowner's property tax bill, with 27 percent allotted to the municipality and 19 percent to the county.

Harriet Fink's interest in art began 35 years ago with drawing and art classes at the DuCret Art School in Plainfield, NJ. Photography of New Jersey's red fox, by Eric Sager, will be on display throughout the month of July in McConnell Gallery. Sager studied at the University of the Arts in Philadelphia, PA and currently shoots portraits, weddings and other events freelance and for a local studio.

This exhibit is a multi-year long journey in finding and photographing New Jersey's red fox. The portraits are printed on fine artist's watercolor paper, hand-mounted, matted and framed with reclaimed wood by the artist.

Sager says, "I wanted to give my audience the feeling of really being there with the foxes; to see the small, serene moments, to be down on the ground alongside them, to share a view of them otherwise unattainable."

Manahawkin Instructional Site to Host Lecture on Benefits of Knee Replacements

Galloway, N.J. – Stockton University's Manahawkin Instructional Site will host a Lunch & Learn lecture, "Why Knee Replacement is Better than Ever," on Tuesday, July 26 at noon.

The free event, which includes a light lunch, will be presented at the Manahawkin Instructional Site, located at 712 E. Bay Ave. The presentation will be given by orthopaedic surgeon Dr. Zachary Post of Rothman Institute.

Dr. Post will discuss new medical techniques for knee replacements; how knee replacements have evolved over time; and what to expect before and after surgery.

To register, call Rothman Institute at 609-488-6854. For more information on activities and classes at the Manahawkin Instructional Site, visit: www.stockton.edu/Manahawkin.

self-recruiting effort. Without enough wild oysters, shelling alone will not work [to restore the oysters in Barnegat Bay]," Evert explained.

Oysters are filter-feeding invertebrates that colonize reefs. Larvae float in the water column until they adhere to a hard substrate, often other oyster shells, at which point they become spat (young, settled oysters). Adding shell to an ecosystem provides new oyster habitat, but only if there is a reasonably established population and larvae available during the summer spawn.

Parsons, an oyster and clam farmer, will use Rutgers Aquaculture Innovation Center-spawned oyster larvae to set spat on clean whelk shell in large tanks, a process known as remote setting. The oyster larvae were purchased from Rutgers University's AIC with a matched donation and logistical support. A similar effort was already made by the American Littoral Society in Ocean Gate for use on the Good Luck Point reef.

"Four million oyster larvae can fit into the palms of two hands," Evert said.

"The funding provided by the Barnegat Bay Partnership is supporting not only the research and outreach efforts, but also helping to increase aquaculture opportunities for farmers like Parsons and restoration groups like ALS," explained Evert.

Once the oyster larvae set onto the whelk shells, which provide more surface area than oyster shells, the whelk shells will be transported to the reef site on Stockton's newest research vessel, the R/V Petrel.

The second half of the on-the-ground efforts entails transplanting wild oyster seed from the Mullica River oyster beds to the research reefs in LEH Bay and Toms River. Evert will work with Maxwell Shellfish, of Port Republic, to harvest wild oysters from their leases in the fall to transplant to the reef sites. Maxwell Shellfish also provided a match toward the project.

"The Mullica River-Great Bay (MRGB) oyster population is the only self-recruiting, fishable stock of oysters in any of New Jersey's coastal bays. It is a natural choice for possible restoration efforts, especially those within reasonable distances of the MRGB system," Evert said.

The biological and cost analysis data collected from these experimental reefs will help to inform larger restoration projects in the future.

"There is so much regional interest in oyster restoration, and we know that shelling will not jump-start restoration in Barnegat or Little Egg Harbor bays," Evert said.

"This leaves us with two options: remote-set aquaculture efforts or Mullica River transplants. The goal of this project is to assess the biological and cost metrics of each approach. The project itself will not restore oysters to self-recruiting levels in these areas, but it will answer some important questions needed to justify larger (more expensive) efforts," said Evert.

Stockton University Marine Field Station Starts Grant Work to Build Experimental Oyster Reef in Little Egg Harbor Bay

Stockton to Work with American Littoral Society and Parsons Mariculture to Measure the Restoration Potential of Wild-set Oysters Vs. a Cultured Disease-Resistant Strain

Galloway, N.J. – Stockton University's Marine Field Station in Port Republic, N.J. will establish an experimental oyster reef in Little Egg Harbor (LEH) Bay this summer and also continue the American Littoral Society's efforts on the Good Luck Point reef near Toms River. The overarching goal of the project is to measure the success of oyster restoration methods using both wild oysters and an aquaculture-spawned, disease-resistant strain.

New Jersey's oyster population has plummeted over the years due to pollution, disease and overharvest. A resurgence in oysters would provide ecosystem services such as improved water quality and fish habitat, as well as potential economic opportunities for the shellfish and aquaculture industries.

The Barnegat Bay Partnership, one of 28 congressionally designated estuary programs in the U.S., awarded Stockton $52,000 in grant funding, which was then matched by Stockton and its project partners, fifth-generation oysterman Dale Parsons, of Parsons Seafood in Tuckerton, N.J., and the American Littoral Society (ALS). The majority of the grant is going toward the LEH Bay project with the rest supporting similar efforts at the Good Luck Point reef.

Steve Evert, manager of Stockton's Field Station, is the project leader. "There is a limited oyster population in the Little Egg Harbor Bay and not nearly enough oysters anywhere in Barnegat Bay to support a

Manfred Bockelmann's Portraits of Children Killed in Holocaust to be Exhibited at Stockton University

International Artist's 'Drawing Against Oblivion' to be Shown Sept. 6-Nov. 13

Galloway, N.J. - "Drawing Against Oblivion," an exhibition of internationally renowned artist Manfred Bockelmann's large-scale charcoal portraits of children killed in the Holocaust, will be exhibited for the first time in the United States at Stockton University's Art Gallery from Sept. 6-Nov. 13.

The powerful, moving show has received international attention, including its inaugural exhibit at the Leopold Museum in Vienna in 2013 and at the Bundestag, the German parliament in Berlin, to commemorate the 70th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz in 2015.

Bockelmann, who lives in Austria, has said: "I don't show martyrs, heaps of dead bodies or ill-treated faces deprived of their individuality and marked by hunger, disease and exhaustion. Rather, I show individuals who have to face their ordeals."

Over 50 portraits memorialize children and youths who were between the ages of 2 and 18 when they fell victim to Nazi terror.

Diethard Leopold, who curated the Viennese exhibit, said: "The portraits are based on police shots taken by the authorities at the time - the Gestapo, the SS and the medical profession - after the children's deportation to hospitals and camps. They were already wearing the infamous broad-striped convicts' suits and had their heads shaven. Others, mainly Roma and Sinti [Gypsies], were asked to report to the authorities for a photo call. Eager to make a good impression, they were wearing their best clothes. While they didn't know what awaited them, their faces are all clearly marked by fear and uncertainty."

Leopold added, "Certainly the portraits are heartbreaking to behold, they leave one speechless and make one inclined to look away. And yet, when looking at them, these young people whose lives were taken, seem to come back to life through our remembrances. ... Bockelmann transforms inhuman distance into closeness."

The university will host two special events related to the exhibition on Wednesday, Oct. 26:

An exhibition panel discussion will be held at 2:30 p.m. in the lower art gallery, with Bockelmann, Andrea Heyman, a Holocaust and Genocide Studies graduate student, Carol Rittner, Distinguished Professor Emerita of Holocaust and Genocide Studies, Elisa von Joeden-Forgey, assistant professor in Holocaust and Genocide Studies, and Marion Hussong, professor of Literature and The Carol Rittner Professor of Holocaust and Genocide Studies at Stockton, who is Bockelmann's niece. Kate Ogden, professor of Art History, will serve as moderator.

The award-winning film, "Drawing Against Oblivion," will be screened at 7- 9:30 p.m. in the Campus Center Theatre. The event is free, but tickets are required. Call 609-652-9000 to reserve tickets.

The film, which documents Bockelmann's creation of the series of works by the same name, was made by Final Frame, an international film crew based in Munich, Germany. They shadowed Bockelmann for 18 months, capturing his visits to archives in the United States and at the Auschwitz concentration camp, where he came face-to-face with the children through photographs and records. The film also includes his 2014 visit at Stockton with Murray Kohn, a Holocaust survivor and retired faculty member who received a special portrait of his little sister from Bockelmann.

The film won "Best International Documentary" at the Garden State Film Festival, three gold medals at the 2015 New York Film Festivals and has received numerous international awards.

The free public screening will be followed by panel discussion with Bockelmann, Executive Producer David Kunac of Final Frame Productions, Director Bärbel Jacks, Hussong, and Adrienne Parvin, a Stockton alumna currently enrolled in the master's in Holocaust & Genocide Studies program. Christine Farina, professor of Communications and an award-winning filmmaker, will serve as moderator.

AAHMSNJ presents an exhibit that pays tribute to the extraordinary life and impact of Muhammed Ali (aka Cassius Clay). This exhibit features posters, magazine covers, one-of-a-kind art and collectible dolls.

Ali was much more than a boxer. He took a stand on issues that changed life for African Americans and how sports figures and regular people-alike they were seen by the White world. His courage and tenacity made him a popular boxer, but he was an even more courageous fighter for civil rights, religious freedom and peace. He was once quoted as saying, “Service to others is the rent you pay for your room here on earth.”

According to Founder and President Ralph Hunter, Sr., this exhibit follows a very popular display devoted to the life and times of music legend Prince. “We’re extremely proud of our vast collection of art and memorabilia focusing on the African American experience — much of which has been donated. This is what allows us to quickly curate exhibits honoring local and national figures who have had a lasting impact on Black life in America.”

“Ali: Sting Like A Bee” will be on display from now through July 31st at the our Atlantic City location in the Noyes Arts Garage.

A pair of piping plovers is now nesting on the beach at Island Beach State Park, the first ocean side nest in more than 25 years and the first in the park in more than a decade. This is great news for recovery of this federally threatened and state endangered bird. NJDEP Division of Fish and Wildlife biologists hope this is an indication of a rebounding population after sharp declines witnessed between 2003 and 2014.

Now Metallica’s tempos, instrumentals, themes and sounds are joined with laser lights. Your pulse and body will pound as the music fills both your ears and eyes. Songs include “For Whom the Bell Tolls,” “Ain’t My B****,” “Fuel,” “One,” “Nothing Else Matters,” “Master of Puppets,” “Unforgiven II,” “Sad But True,” and “Enter Sandman.”

Laser Bon Jovi – Sat, July 16 at 8:30 p.m. After ushering in the era of pop-metal with their hit singles “You Give Love a Bad Name,” “Livin’ on a Prayer,” and “Wanted Dead or Alive,” Bon Jovi grew out of the big-haired ‘80s to become one of the biggest American rock bands of its time, occasionally hitting on the Adult Contemporary charts without ever turning away from hard rock, proving how they never lost their roots and became second only to Bruce Springsteen in defining the spirit and sound of New Jersey Rock ‘n’ Roll. Songs include “Livin’ on a Prayer,” “Have a Nice Day,” “I’ll Be There for You,” “It’s My Life,” “Wanted Dead or Alive,” “Who Says You Can’t Go Home,” “Thank You for Loving Me,” “You Give Love a Bad Name,” “Runaway,” “This is Love This is Life,” and “We Weren’t Born to Follow.”

Laser Pink Floyd: Dark Side of the Moon – Sat, July 30 at 8:30 p.m. NOTE: May contain lyrics that some parents find objectionable. Not recommended for ages under 15. This iconic album offers a mixture of psychedelic, rock, and jazz sounds. Its sonic backdrops and atmospheric soundscapes combined with a unique assortment of sound effects yield an emotional resonance. When accompanied by a diverse and unusual display of laser art, the overall feel is a dramatic and haunting atmosphere. Songs include “Speak to Me,” “Breathe,” “On the Run,” “Time,” “The Great Gig in the Sky,” “Money,” “Us and Them,” “Any Colour You Like,” “Brain Damage,” and “Eclipse.”

Laser Pink Floyd: The Wall – Sat, July 30 at 9:45 p.m. NOTE: May contain lyrics that some parents find objectionable. Not recommended for ages under 15. Pink Floyd is always a crowd favorite and The Wall is considered to be one of the best classic rock albums of all time. It is a timeless classic, and one of Pink Floyd’s best, becoming the group’s second best seller behind Dark Side of the Moon. Song Playlist: “In the Flesh,” “The Thin Ice,” “Another Brick in the Wall (Part I),” “The Happiest Days of Our Lives,” “Another Brick in the Wall (Part II),” “Mother,” “Goodbye Blue Sky,” “Empty Spaces,” “Young Lust,” “Another Brick in the Wall (Part III),” “Hey You,” “Comfortably Numb,” “Stop,” “The Trial,” and “Run Like Hell.”

AAUW's Tech Trek Offers Girls Immersion in Science, Technology, Engineering and Math in Camp at Stockton July 17-23

Galloway, N.J. - Sixty girls from throughout New Jersey will learn about Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) fields and meet female career role models in a hands-on residential camp here sponsored by the American Association of University Women (AAUW) and Stockton University from July 17-23.

"As AAUW New Jersey president, I believe in the power of projects like Tech Trek because they inspire our girls to dare to dream about the future and make it happen," said Carol Cohen. "I'm proud that Tech Trek continues our AAUW NJ tradition of encouraging girls' involvement in STEM through our programs such as Teentech and Tween Tech. New Jersey is the only state that hosts all three of these programs, and we keep the costs down to $50 per camper for the entire week, based on generous contributions. The more girls we can prepare for higher paying STEM jobs, the closer we will come to ending the pay equity gap."

Studies have shown that girls initially interested in STEM fields tend not to pursue them after early adolescence. Yet there is a growing demand for jobs in those male-dominated fields, and the United States has a shortfall of qualified graduates to fill them.

The students, who will be entering eighth grade in the fall, will live on campus and participate in activities such as programming apps for tablets and smart phones, conducting chemistry and biology lab experiments, exploring cybersecurity online, building circuits, maneuvering a robot over an obstacle course, and collecting samples from Lake Fred to examine under a microscope.

On Wednesday, July 20, two field trips will focus on aviation. Twenty girls will be going to Philadelphia International Airport's air traffic control tower, and two other groups of 20 each will rotate through a day of drone flights and building and launching rockets on the Galloway campus.

"Stockton deeply values the action that AAUW has been taking to close the gender pay equity gap," said Dean Claudine Keenan of the School of Education, an AAUW member and one of the event's organizers. "Decades of research point to the reasons that adolescent girls turn away from pursuing STEM fields, where higher paying careers show the starkest gender imbalances."

"The Tech Trek camp model puts that research into action, providing girls with hands-on STEM experiences, led by women in these fields, at our state-of-the-art facilities, in our naturally beautiful, residential campus environment," Keenan said.

All campers will attend core classes during the week including:

Symantec Cyber Security: Learn how a computer works, how to code and finally how to hack like a hero - with LOTS of hands-on activities.

It's Electric! Learn how circuits work and creating your own with light-up name tags, flashlights and a circuit thank you card for the sponsors. Learn about women such as Edith Clarke, who made their mark in electrical engineering before anyone believed we could.

MIT Inventor Apps on Verizon Tablets: Use existing phone app templates to add one's own spin on coding apps. Learn the basics of app invention in an environment that MIT developed, and discover how apps are used on mobile phones and tablets.

1-2-3 Blast off to STEM: During this interactive and hands-on learning approach, actively participate in several different laboratory experiments understanding the how and why things work in various branches of science while integrating technology seamlessly within each step of our learning. Students will build rocket racers, create an apparatus to have the highest explosion with Coke and Mentos, walk across eggs, and much more.

For more information about the camp, visit the AAUW Tech Trek site.

Dynamic show by local photographer showcases
New Jersey's red fox

TOMS RIVER – Vulpes Vulpes (Red Fox), a photography exhibit by Eric Sager, will be on exhibit in McConnell Gallery at the Toms River Branch of the Ocean County Library throughout the month of July.

Sager is a central New Jersey-based freelance photographer and artist. He studied Fine Arts and Film Photography at the University of the Arts in Philadelphia, PA. He primarily shoots weddings and other events, but in his free time he focuses on photographing wildlife in any New Jersey's many nature preserves.

This exhibit is a multi-year long journey in finding and photographing New Jersey's red fox. The portraits are printed on fine artist's watercolor paper, hand-mounted, matted and framed with reclaimed wood by Sager.

Sager says, "I wanted to give my audience the feeling of really being there with the foxes; to see the small, serene moments, to be down on the ground alongside them, to share a view of them otherwise unattainable."

The exhibit is free and open to the public. For more information, please contact the Toms River Branch of the Ocean County Library at 732-349-6200 or visit our website at www.theoceancountylibrary.org.

OCC ART GALLERY ANNOUNCES NEW SEASON OF EXHIBITS

TOMS RIVER – The Grunin Center Art Gallery (Building #12), Ocean County College Main Campus, College Drive, Toms River, NJ, is proud to announce its 2015-2016 Gallery Exhibit Schedule featuring local and national artists. Please use Parking Lot #2. Admission to the Gallery is free.

July 5 to August 28, 2016: Lynn Whitfield – A member of the Toms River Artists Community (TRAC), Whitfield is a sculptor and a poet, combining her poems with sculpture using her physical form as a guide. The sculptures, made of clear wrapping tape, feature the texts of her poems with a specially picked backdrop that carries the theme of the poem/sculpture.

August 30 to September 28, 2016 (Meet the Artist Reception, Sat, Sept 10, 6-8pm): “Wild Wood: Sculpture by Amy Puccio” – A self-taught artist, Puccio is a graduate of Kean University with a double major in biology and chemistry, working as a product development chemist for nine years and then briefly, as a portrait photographer. After becoming a stay-at-home mom, Puccio started working part-time as a picture framer, learning on the job. She began creating art with picture frame moulding scraps while working in frame shops and in a contemporary art gallery, building her first recycled-wood sculpture in 2006. Puccio works with a variety of subject matter including pop art and supersized works based on everyday objects including her “pet” subject – food!

October 2016: George Krause, Photographer – Krause’s photographs are in major museum collections including the Museum of Modern Art in New York, the Museum of Fine Arts in Houston, The Philadelphia Museum of Art, and the Bibliothèque Nationale in Paris. In 1993, he was honored as the Texas Artist of the Year. He recently retired from the University of Houston where he created the photography program.

November 2016: Lizzi Schippert – Focusing on classical techniques in printmaking (lithography and intaglio), figure and portrait drawing, collage, pochoir (a stencil technique), and painting, along with Japanese and Chinese calligraphy, Schippert has exhibited nationwide, from Manhattan to Hawaii, and in Sweden, Japan, and the Caribbean.

December 5 to December 22, 2016: Ann Hayes “Scene at the Shore” – A group show focusing on the landscape, landmarks, and features of the Jersey Shore featuring 11 artists exhibiting in diverse media. Hayes often works in watercolor, oil, and Giclée.

January 2017: Tony Ventura & Tina Adamitis – Exhibit information forthcoming.

February 2017: Frank McGinley, Painter/Art Historian – Painting most of his life, McGinley received his first award at the age of 13 in a contest held by New York City for students preparing to enter high school. McGinley’s painting depicted the Battle of Wake Island where U.S. Marines were defeated in 1942. The painting is in the archives of the New York Metropolitan Museum of History.

McGinley was accepted as an independent artist into the U. S. Air Force Art Program and his work is hanging in the Pentagon, Washington, D.C. Two of his Air Force paintings were part of the book U.S. Air Force 60th Anniversary Complete History. McGinley has permanent displays at West Point Military Academy, the U. S. Coast Guard Station (Atlantic City), Notre Dame University, and the British War Museum (London, England), just to name a few. He also presented signed lithographs to President Ronald Reagan and Queen Elizabeth. McGinley’s illustrated covers for a set of books covering the Holocaust (CIS Publishing Co., Lakewood) are in the Holocaust Museum in Washington, D.C.

PRESS RELEASE

Waretown branch Library Month of August New York City Unfiltered – Sheldon Nadelman

Although Sheldon Nadelman’s subjects were often overlooked, as well as, stepped over, his photographs often got much attention. An acclaimed book, Terminal Bar – A Photographic Record of New York’s Most Notorious Watering Hole and a Sundance award winning short film documentary award, The Terminal Bar, have both resulted from his works. Even Martin Scorsese used the Terminal Bar in his film, Taxi Driver.

From Nadelman’s vantage point as a bartender at the Terminal Bar at the corner of Eighth Avenue and West 41st. Street, he shot 2600 photographs with his $85 Pentax. His works have been the subject of a New York Times article, whose headquarters, ironically, now stands on the former site of the bar. Taken from 1962 until 1981, his photographs have long been recognized as historically significant.

Along with the “sooty, sticky-floored life” images taken off the streets in front of the Terminal Bar, Nadelman is also displaying sensitive images of the World Trade Center, pre-9/11.

A reception will be held at the Waretown Branch Library on Monday, August 8 at 7:30 pm and it is open to the public.

These programs are free and open to the public.

OCC FOUNDATION GOLF OUTING SET FOR SEPTEMBER 20 AT PINE BARRENS

TOMS RIVER – The Ocean County College Foundation invites you to tee off at its 15th Annual Golf Outing at Pine Barrens Golf Club, Jackson, NJ, on Tuesday, September 20 featuring "Beat the Pro" and "Putting" contests! Event will be held rain or shine.

The entry fee is $325 per player. Your contribution includes lunch, use of driving range before the shotgun start, green fees, golf cart, and a golf gift. An Awards and Cocktail Reception, in the clubhouse, will immediately follow the afternoon tournament. Soft spikes and golf attire are required.

"In our first 14 years, we raised over $750,000 to support the students of Ocean County College and we have set our sights on a goal of $50,000 for this year," explained Michael B. York, Golf Outing Chairman, OCC Foundation. "By providing students with excellent educational opportunities, it opens a new world of possibilities and paves the way for their future success."

Individuals and businesses may lend support by becoming a sponsor. All sponsors receive recognition in the reception program; in addition, depending on level of sponsorship, this may also include name prominently displayed at Golf Outing, entry fees for a foursome or twosome, tee sponsor, and Mulligans. Please call for details.

Registration Deadline: August 29. To register as a player or sponsor, call the OCC Foundation at 732-255-0492.
